With Acuity, e-discovery is:

Cost-Effective

- Using predictive coding and advanced analytics, reviews are faster and less expensive.
- Predictable, up front and transparent pricing options, including per GB and per document, put you in control of the budget.
- All project management, technology and labor are included.

Defensible

- Rigorous quality control is ensured throughout the review process through consistent testing and statistical sampling.
- FTI has vast experience in managing legal review projects ranging from complex, multi-district litigation to smaller cases, investigations and regulatory requests that can be completed in a matter of days.
- The entire process is backed by FTI's expert testimony—a global Tier One provider you can trust.

Collaborative

- Information is shared with counsel in real-time, eliminating the need for the re-review of data.
- The Acuity workflow is guided by your outside counsel and supports the complete legal review process from data processing through document production.
- FTI's hosted offering enables you and your law firm to quickly access data anytime, anywhere—providing complete transparency at every stage of the process.

Comprehensive

- A single point of accountability and centralized project management let you manage to a result (accurately reviewed documents) rather than managing costly handoffs between vendors.
- Because FTI provides a broad range of e-discovery services, you can seamlessly add adjacent services such as document collection, depending on your particular needs.
- With FTI offices in every major business center, Acuity offers the people and resources to deploy anywhere in the world while adhering to data privacy requirements.

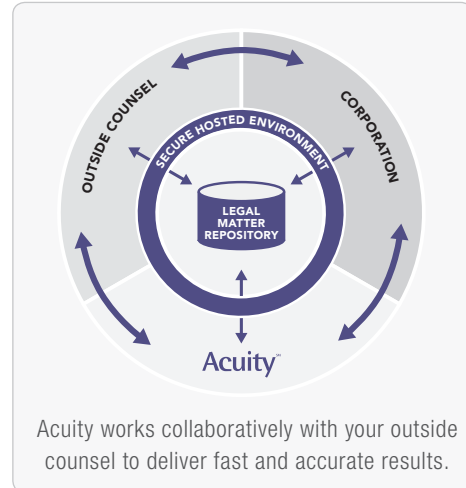

“Our project, like every other one, had some unanticipated, unforeseen issues but the Acuity model is nimble enough that it can adapt. It was able to adapt to our needs without materially changing the cost or the deadline.”

— Ryan C. Thomas,
Of Counsel, Jones Day
